Raise your Renbu Rank!

By attacking the enemy, your Renbu Gauge will fill, and when it is full, your Renbu Rank will rise. As your Renbu Rank increases, your attacks will become more powerful and you will be able to use even more attacks. Additionally, if you can continually attack the enemy without taking damage yourself, then the number of Chain will rise. As the number of Chain rises, it will be easier to fill up the Renbu Gauge, so it is important to try and keep up your Chain as much as possible.

Renbu Ranks have 4 levels, ranging from 1 → 2 → 3 → Infinite (in the beginning, you cannot progress any higher than Rank 2) The higher your rank is, the more powerful your attacks are and the more types of attacks you can perform (→P.8). Once your Renbu Rank reaches Infinite, you can also get elemental damage added to your attacks.

Watch your Renbu gauge increase as you attack enemies..

When it reaches it's maximum, you will go up in rank.

Finding the "Beads" item (→P.16) will give you Infinite Renbu Rank for 30 seconds.

Know Your Enemy

Are you too focused on your own movements when fighting battles? By simply studying your enemy for the following signs, it will make a large difference in how effective a fighter you are.

If the enemy soldier
glows yellow?

He's preparing a powerful attack!
Evade or attack first.

The enemy officer is glowing red!

He's ready to use a Musou Attack.
Use a Power Attack or Musou Attack
of your own, or try to evade him.

The enemy officer has a red aura...

He's powering up. You'll need to be careful if you plan to attack him!

Occupy As Many Bases As Possible

By occupying bases, you will increase the number of locations producing recovery items, as well as increasing the number of allied soldiers and increasing allied Morale. First, you should check who is controlling the bases on the map before going to battle. Blue bases are controlled by your allies and red ones are controlled by the enemy.

Entering the base

Normally, the gates to the enemy bases are closed. By attacking the gates, the Gate Gauge will decrease and when it reaches 0 (→P.11), the gate will be destroyed and you can enter the base. However, there are some gates like Hu Lao Gate, that are essentially impervious to your attack and will require you to use rams to break down (see more on sieges on →P.15).

Surprise attack

Jumping into or entering a base without passing through the gate will likely lead to a "Surprise Attack". If this happens, the enemy's defenses will be lowered momentarily.

Occupying the base

When the durability of the enemy base reaches 0, then the base will be yours.

WAYS TO DECREASE A BASE'S DURABILITY

- It will decrease by 1 for each enemy soldier you defeat within the base.
- It will decrease by 20 for each Corporal you defeat.
- The base will be yours automatically if you defeat the Guard Captain.
- If you defeat an enemy officer within the base, then it will decrease by the number of soldiers within that officer's unit.

* Guard Captains will not appear until the durability of the base reaches 100 or lower. Also, they will not appear in smaller bases.

Recover in your Base

Within your own bases, when you take a recovery item (→P.16), it will be replaced after a set amount of time. The larger the base, the better the recovery item will appear. However, only "Meat Buns" will appear if an enemy is in the base.

Siege Battles

In certain stages such as The Battle of Hu Lao Gate, there will be Siege Battles where you need to break down a castle gate. Sieges begin when the attacking army arrives at the castle gate. Even if you attack the gate directly, it will be impossible to destroy it. When the Siege Battle begins, allied Engineers will appear before the gate and begin building the siege weapons. You will be responsible for protecting the allied engineers and siege weapons from the enemy.

Protect the siege weapons from the enemy!

Use the Terrain to Your Advantage

If you think you're stuck and can't proceed any further, be sure to check your surroundings. In addition to traversing about the battlefield, you can also move using the following. Use these to your advantage in battle and to work your way around the enemy.

You can cross a river if it's not too deep.

By pressing the  $\times$  button when near a ladder, you can climb and descend ladders.

You can also jump down from cliffs and other higher elevations.

Units & Independent Officers

Every officer and troop move in units. If the unit commander is defeated, then that unit's troops will be forced to retreat. Additionally, officers assigned to armies may wish to go out on their own and decide to separate from their current unit. If this happens, then the strength of their previous unit will decrease. This can have a great effect on the battle, so be sure to keep an eye on the battle messages.

A new unit has been formed. What effect will this have on the battle?

Ability of Bannermen

Bannermen have the ability to raise the morale of allied troops. Once every several seconds, they will approach allied troops and officers and raise their abilities. The ability raised will be one of the following: Attack x 2, Defense x 2 or Speed Up.

Items

These are items that appear during battles. Depending on the type of item, the way in which it appears will differ. Once they appear, they will remain for only a limited period of time, so be sure to pick them up as quickly as possible.

WAYS IN WHICH ITEMS APPEAR

- Appears within a base → Recovery Items

Obtaining Weapons

The weapons that you collected during the stage will be displayed. Weapons are unique to each officer. Weapons have types, power, elemental affinities, effects and more (→P.19). Your officer can hold up to 8 weapons. If you already have 8 weapons, then you must dispose of a weapon if you wish to pick a new one.

Warhorse Experience

When you select a warhorse to take into battle with you, your horse's experience points will increase depending on the number of K.O.s and experience points. The warhorses have levels, abilities, elemental affinities and special characteristics (→P.19). Once your warhorse's experience points have gone over a certain amount, the horse's level will increase. When the horse's level increases, each of its abilities will also rise. It may also gain special characteristics or elemental affinities.

Obtaining Warhorses

Any warhorses you obtained during the stage will be displayed. Warhorses can be used by any officer. Your officer can own up to 8 warhorses. If you already own 8 warhorses, then you must dismiss one in order to obtain the new one.

Unlocking Officers

By completing certain conditions within the game, the number of officers you are able to choose from will increase. There are some officers that you can unlock that can be used in all of the game modes, as well as some officers that you can only use in the Free or Challenge Modes.

Officer Development

The following describes the rules for developing your officer.

Factors Determining Officer Development

You will gain levels after accumulating enough experience points. An increase in level will give your officer a new title and increase abilities. You may even receive some Skill Points. You can use these Skill Points to learn new skills (→P.20). Learning new skills will increase basic abilities and may give your officer special attributes. The type of weapon you have equipped will also increase in power or give your officer new abilities.

LEVEL (LV) → Earn experience points and level up

SKILLS (→P.20) → Use Skill Points to learn Skills (Skill Points are earned when you level up)

WEAPONS (→P.19) → Obtain by defeating an enemy officer in battle
→ Obtain by completing stage targets

Earning Experience Points

Complete Stage Targets

By completing the stage targets, you can obtain a large amount of experience points. There are three targets for every stage.

Obtaining EXP Items

EXP Items can be obtained by defeating enemy officers. Depending on the strength of the enemy officer and other conditions, the level of the EXP Item dropped will differ.

Increase your K.O. Count

You will obtain experience points for every 100 K.O.s you achieve. However, you will not be able to receive any additional experience points if you go over 1,000 K.O.s.

EXP Items are essential for leveling up your character.

To Receive More Experience Points

Fighting with exceptional technique can lead to receiving more experience points, as well. Additionally, by raising the game's difficulty level, a bonus will be applied to all of the experience points you receive.

Use a Special Attack to defeat the enemy

If you defeat the enemy using a Special Attack (→P.9), even normal soldiers will drop an EXP Item (enemy officers will drop an EXP Pouch - Large).

Use a Grapple Attack to defeat an enemy officer

By finishing off an enemy officer with a Grapple Attack, you will receive an EXP Item one rank above what you would get normally.

Defeat an enemy officer during a surprise attack

If you defeat an enemy officer during a surprise attack (→P.14), then even regular troops will drop an EXP Item (enemy officers will drop an EXP Pouch - Large).

Obtaining Weapons
