Introduction

Darkness is a conflicting force to humans; feared by children and avoided by law.

Nevertheless, this law may be broken, and those around it get lost within...

Here, we find two young girls in an ominous place with two very different paths...

One of the girls is named Utsuki. In search of her missing father, she traveled to the mansion with her older sister. Shortly after they arrived, her sister was charmed by a mysterious song and vanished into the darkness. Utsuki now wanders the mansion alone, looking for her family.

The other girl is named Sakuya. She entered the castle with her fellow disciples by order of their master, Doman. Their mission is to investigate the mansion and find out why demons roam about. The company of disciples entered the castle separately, each wanting to be the first to solve the mystery. Sakuya is determined to uncover the mansion's secrets and prove to all that she is worthy.

Now, the two girl's stories begin; their life forever changed.

Humans should never tempt the darkness. If done, they clash in ways unimaginable, but only then will the fate of Kuon be revealed and the ultimate act of betrayal be known...

Main Characters

Utsuki-Ying Phase

Utsuki is a young girl with sorrowful eyes and a trampled soul who, along with her sister, is searching for their father in Lord Fujiwara's mansion. The sisters live in complete isolation at the top of a nearby mountain; they are forbidden to leave. Utsuki blames herself for an accident that injured her sister and has been taking care of her since their mother died.

Sakuya-Yang Phase

As a young exorcist, she studies the art intensely and processes a strong will. Being born into the Kamo family – a traditional exorcist family – she's been familiar with magic ever since childhood. Sakuya has been studying under a dubious teacher though, a civilian exorcist known as Doman. While questionable, Doman was the only one accepting of Sakuya, since it's believed in the Kamo family that women are inferior to men. Sakuya is investigating Lord Fujiwara's mansion with three other disciples.

Starting & Combat

Starting the Game

Press the START button at the TITLE screen to display the MAIN MENU options.

Begin

Start a new game.

Load

Load saved game data and resume playing where you last left off. Requires a Memory Card (8MB) (for PlayStation®2) containing saved KUON game data.

Settings

Access this menu option to adjust various game settings (Vibration, Control Set-up, etc.).

Combat

Enemies encountered during the game are dispatched through the use of magic and weapon-based attacks.

Using Magic

A character must possess magic cards in order to execute magic-based attacks. Magic cards come in two types, Spell and Summon, and are made available for use by assigning them to buttons at the EQUIPMENT screen. To execute a magic-based attack during the game, simply press the attack button that the magic card was assigned to. The number of remaining magic cards is displayed in the lower right-hand portion of the game screen.

Using Weapons

If no magic card has been assigned to an attack button, pressing that button will cause the character to execute a weapon-based attack with whichever weapon is currently equipped. There is no limit to the number of times a weapon can be used, but this form of attack is less powerful than magic.

Vertigo & Death

Vertigo

Vertigo is experienced when a character encounters a tempest (area of concentrated evil energy), or sustains injury during combat. The bar at the top of the in-game menu screen indicates a character's physical condition. The bar changes color from blue--> yellow --> red as a character's condition worsens. Physical well-being is also expressed through the character's heart rate (mimicked by the controller's vibration function). Magic cards cannot be used when a character is experiencing vertigo. In order to recover from vertigo, one must either meditate or use spiritual medicine.

Death

Vertigo is a sign that a character's death is imminent. For this reason, it is always best to remedy the vertigo condition as quickly as possible.

Kuon

Magic

Magic can be obtained in the form of cards and are available in two varieties, Spell and Summon.

Spell Cards

These cards enable a character to attack enemies using the magic inherent to the card. Magic spell attacks are released as soon as the button corresponding to the card is pressed. Each use of a magic spell attack consumes one magic card.

Summon Cards

Activating a summon card calls forth an entity that fights for the character for a set amount of time. Entities called forth to assist the player can be released prematurely through either meditation, or by holding the R2 button and pressing the attack button the summon card was assigned to. Releasing summoned entities enables a character to recover some of their physical strength.

Spell Card - Hibari

Releases a small fiery arrow that is propelled forward. The range for this spell attack is short and its destructive potential is small.

Summon Card - Sutegumo

Calls forth a small spider that fights enemies on behalf of the character. The spider's durability and attack strength are rather low, but it is useful for holding enemy characters in check.

Summon Card - Fudobaku

Creates a magical golden circle that traps an enemy target and prevents it from moving for a set amount of time. This spell does not inflict damage on enemy targets, but is useful for evening the odds in situations where multiple enemies are encountered.

Other Characters

Kureha

Kureha is Utsuki's older sister. She loves her sister dearly and is very affectionate with her. Born and raised in isolation on top of a mountain, she knows nothing about the outside world. While playing with her sister, she was involved in a terrible accident that left her weak and prone to sickness. Lately, her condition has worsened, but she hides it from Utsuki. She is forever grateful for her sister's care and even though she is weak, she aggressively protects her sister.

Doman

He no longer serves the Emperor after being banished due to his questionable behavior. He now practices as a well-known civilian exorcist. He completed his training and adapted his technique from local magic. The emperor's high exorcists say that he does not follow the ways of tradition and that he believes that a visible reward is the most important thing. His influence has become stronger in the last few years and it has gained him many followers. It's said that his technique is as good as the best Imperial exorcist, Seimei. Four of Doman's disciples were sent to Lord Fujiwara's mansion to investigate the cause of the roaming demons recently found there.

Dokai

Dokai is an extremely intelligent exorcist and faithful disciple of Doman. He is the oldest of the disciples sent to Lord Fujiwara's mansion and is determined to solve the mystery. He's fully committed to his research and furthering his knowledge. He is always found carrying his journal and logs every discovery and thought in it religiously.

Dochin

Dochin is the youngest of Doman's disciples and the son of a famous exorcist. Since he was not born a noble, he was sent to Doman for training. Being so young, his magic is still undeveloped. He tries to act mature and be responsible, but his age shows through at times. His inexperience with demons frightens him, although he does his best to remain strong.

Doryo

He thinks and views life a little different than most. He has always kept to himself and was shunned because of this. He devotes his work to Doman because of the acceptance he receives. He has a kind heart and is friendly towards others. He is proud to be an exorcist and believes in the justice behind the dispelling of demons. He knows that Dokai is consumed in research so he watches over the others, especially Sakuya.

Sugoroku

Basic Instructions

Sugoroku is a two-player board game that was popular during the Heian Era in Japan. The game is played using a board, 30 pieces (15 black, 15 white), a dice cup, and two dice.

- Game ----- Compete against the CPU
- Versus ----- Compete against another player
- Tutorial ----- Review the rules of the game

Simple Version

Each player's 15 pieces are arranged at one end of the board. The objective is for each player to be the first to move all of their pieces from the starting point to the opposite end of the board. Players roll the dice at the beginning of each turn, and then move their piece(s) forward as many spaces as indicated by the dice. In order for a piece to be placed at the goal end of the board, the exact number of spaces the piece has to move must be rolled. If a number larger than what is needed is rolled, the piece moves the excess number of spaces backward from the goal.

Your Goal

Take turns throwing the dice. Try to get all your pieces to your goal area by moving them clockwise around the board.

3/7

Each player's pieces are arranged in their starting positions on the board. The objective is for each player to try to be the first to move all of their pieces into their assigned goal area.

The real version of Sugoroku requires more strategy on the part of both players than the simple version. Players roll the dice at the beginning of each turn, and then move their piece(s) forward as many spaces as indicated by the dice. When a player moves a piece to an area where only one of their opponent's pieces is located, the opponent's piece will be moved back to the starting area. Pieces cannot be moved into areas where two or more of an opponent's pieces are located. If this is the only move available to the player, they must pass on their turn. Pieces located at the starting point must be moved before any others.

Tips

Heart Rate

As a character runs, their heart rate (mimicked by the controller's vibration function) steadily increases. If a character runs too much, they will become short of breath and be more susceptible to vertigo. Meditating will reduce a character's heart rate and bring it back to a regular level.

Meditating

Meditating (press and hold the R1 button) enables a character to regain their physical strength, as well as reduce their heart rate. Remaining stationary is another way to reduce a character's heart rate, but meditating is a more efficient means of doing so. Keep in mind that whenever a character meditates, any summoned entities will be released.

Grappling with Enemies

Remaining in an enemy's grasp for too long is a sure way to meet with an untimely end. To prevent this from happening, always remember to quickly free a character from an enemy's grasp by repeatedly wiggling the left analog stick.

Finishing Enemies

Some creatures encountered during the game are able to get back up on their feet after being knocked down only once. Always execute a finishing blow while an enemy is on the ground to ensure that it remains there.

Tempest

Numerous areas throughout the game are hot spots of evil energy. Running through these areas will automatically cause a character to experience vertigo and disables their use of magic. Always make sure to either meditate or use spiritual medicine whenever a character experiences vertigo.
